Mr. Ward was very enthusiastic about the hunt and the Yellowhead and said:

Mr. Brewster says that great preparations are being made for the First of July sports at Jasper. There will be horse races, pack contests, baseball games and everything else along the line of sport. It is expected that a large number of Edmonton sportsmen will be present.

AT MAJESTY NEXT WEEK

"The Doctor and The Woman" With Mildred Harris—William Russell in "In Bad" and Charlie Chaplin in "The Fireman" Announced.

To be the author of a series of stories as popular as the "Babe" series and to have written "K" which was published not many months ago in McClure's Magazine and subsequently in book form is an achievement of which any author might well be proud. "Babe" has reached motion picture status. Margaret Clark and Paramount had now come the Mary Roberts Rinehart of more serious vein with her "K" dramatized and filmed via Mildred Harris and Jewel production. It comes to the Majestic theatre the first four days next week.

Mary Roberts Rinehart is one of the best and in "K" she has written of a hospital nurse and the producer of one of the best stories this "profile" writer has yet turned out. It is her appearance in a small town, and as "K" Lorraine gets a position with the gas company. He loves Sidney Page, but Sidney thinks she loves Dr. Wilson, and takes a course in nursing in the hospital in which he is house surgeon. Carlotta, jealous, changes labels on medicine bottles, throwing the blame on Sidney, and it is the mysterious "K" who suggests a new treatment, saving the patients' lives. Then comes the climax. Carlotta's own romance, and she reveals the mystery of "K" to save the life of the man she loves.

The last two days of next week will be devoted to a double-header program that is entertaining from any angle one wants to consider it. Wm. Russell is presented in "In Bad," a picture many of the Russell fans have been waiting for for many weeks. The comedy feature will be Charlie Chaplin in "The Fireman" one of his funniest if not the very funniest picture in which he has ever appeared.

ALICE BRADY COMING TO EMPRESS IN FILM "BOUGHT AND PAID FOR"

Edmonton has seen Alice Brady on a number of occasions, and she will welcome her third three days of next week in that noted success, "Bought and Paid For" which was made for her by the World Film company. It is only recently that "Bought and Paid For" was on the Hippodrome stage under the direction of Mr. James Blaine, and the comparisons of the two productions will be interesting.

"Bought and Paid For" presents the case of many girls in this age of easily won wealth. Where we believe that if they take a girl from a humble position and with the little money they have give her everything she can desire, she will be content. But the movie makers tell us that the girl will not be content, she will want more, she will want the things that she can't make up for a drunken husband or hours and days of neglect, and Miss

Second Phase Austrian Drive
On Italian Front Now Looked For--Situation Still Serious

Along the Piave the Italian Positions are Virtually Unchanged--Fighting on the Montello Plateau Continues Very Severe--First American Aviator Makes His Appearance.

Italian Headquarters, June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The second phase of the Austrian offensive, featured by attacks to the right and left of Valsugana, along the Brenta river and in the mountains, should logically begin soon, now that the effort on the Piave has failed. It is felt that if the Austrians do not renew their efforts to penetrate to the "line" through the Brenta river and along Monte Grappa, it would be an acknowledgment of defeat and their inability to carry out the ambitious plan announced last week ago. The situation is still regarded as most serious and all preparations have been made to meet any new offensive.

Along the Piave the Italian positions are virtually unchanged. The Austrians are fighting well, according to the Italians, but the latter are out-

SENSATIONAL DEVELOPMENT IRISH AFFAIRS

Curzon's Speech Subject of Sharp Comment by London Morning Papers.

London, June 21.—Earl Curzon's speech to the House of Lords today night was immediately seized upon by the newspapers as a declaration of breakdown in the government's Irish policy, indicating an end to the hand-onment for the present at least of any attempt to introduce a Bill to divide the island.

The Unionist Morning Post in its comment on the speech said: "The government once more has been shown its financial and political weakness and its incapacity to carry out its policy of rationalization and reconstruction."

Curzon's speech, which was a surprise to the public, was a direct attack on the Irish situation. He said that the government had no alternative but to accept the terms of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, which was a direct attack on the Irish situation. ANOTHER BOMBING OUTRAGE QUEBEC

Sentiment Against Registration Blasted To Be Growing in Quebec.

Quebec, June 21.—Sentiment against registration, announced in the province, county, and another bombing outrage, is now being felt in the province. The third within the last two months. The last reported attempt was made in the small parish of St. Louis, where a few days ago a bomb was exploded in the middle of the night near the residence of Mary Poulton, no harm resulted.

News from Sainte Edouard de Louthier reports trouble there, too, but owing to the meagre means of communication, no particulars are available. A message received from St. Croix says that in other parishes a number of houses from military service are being and opened for the one to hold the registration of men and women power in the county. Trouble is also reported from Manicouegui, Quebec.

HINDOO TROOPS COOL WHEN SHIP WAS LOST

London, June 21.—(Reuter's News Agency)—The admiralty reports a striking instance of the discipline and bravery of Indian native troops aboard a sinking British transport in the Mediterranean, which had been torpedoed by a German submarine. The natives coolly proceeded to the boat stations and stood at attention. As the boats were being lowered a second torpedo struck the vessel, which was rapidly sinking. The soldiers were ordered to stand at attention and the boats were lowered. The natives coolly proceeded to the boat stations and stood at attention. Edmonton Coal

Financing & Storing Winter Supply

The two great objections raised by the Winnipeg press to the use of Alberta coal are, first, the financial burden incident to the carrying of the winter's stock during the summer months, and, second, the alleged lack of good keeping qualities in the coal itself. As to the first point, the supply of coal which Winnipeg and Manitoba has hitherto secured from Pennsylvania, had to be mined during the early summer months so that it could be transported across the lakes before the close of navigation.

Therefore, the burden of summer carrying charges on the coal hitherto consumed in Manitoba has rested on some one, either the miner, the dealer or the consumer. Which of these carried the burden, or how it was divided amongst them is not known, but that it was shared, and that it was a serious burden (more serious indeed than that involved in the carrying over of Alberta coal) is beyond question.

Just why the attempt should be made to have it appear that the carrying of a winter's coal supply over the summer months is something hitherto unknown in Winnipeg or Manitoba is not altogether evident. Whoever paid the cost in the first place under former conditions, undoubtedly the consumer paid in the end, just as he will have to do in the case of Alberta coal bought in the summer and stored for winter use. No doubt the dealer financed these carrying charges, and took his pay out of the consumer. On the other hand, Alberta is in a position to give Manitoba a certain portion of the season's coal during the WINTER months and this would need no special financing, whereas all the Pennsylvania coal had to be carried over the summer months. Because he does not see as large a profit in sight in the handling of Alberta coal, the dealer declines to do business on as favorable terms for the product of his own country as he has hitherto been doing in handling the product of a foreign country. If the dealer refuses to finance for delivery of Alberta coal early in the season, he is master of the situation, so far as he himself is concerned, and unless some other means is taken it becomes impossible to lay in during the summer a supply of Alberta coal that will certainly prevent a winter scarcity.

The Government has butted in to the coal business from almost every angle. It may have been necessary that such action as has been taken, should be taken; but after Government interference in so many forms there is no reason why the Dominion Government should not take upon itself the burden of financing that part of the coal requirements of the West that must be mined in summer if there is not to be a coal famine in the winter. The mine operators are not in a financial position to carry the load; the consumers, speaking of them as a whole, are in no better position, although, in individual instances, they can do so. If the Government would back the coal dealers in the banks in providing payment for coal delivered during the summer months, there would be no possibility of the Government losing on the transaction, and the wheels of industry could be kept rolling, when otherwise they cannot possibly be moved. If the licensed dealer at a distributing point was able to draw from the bank say 75% of the cost of his coal delivered to him from the mine, and was compelled to turn over to the bank an equal amount out of every ton he sold, there would be absolutely no chance of loss to the country, and the mines could at once begin to produce to their full capacity.

The Keeping Qualities of Edmonton Coal.

Assuming the financial problem to be met in this way, the next question is as to the keeping qualities of Alberta domestic coal. This alleged lack of keeping quality is being worked to a frazzle in the campaign put on by the Pennsylvania interests in Winnipeg, and no doubt has some effect upon the minds of consumers. If they can be made to believe that the coal which is bought in summer will not be of value as fuel in winter, they are bound to take every means to prevent their being dependent on Alberta coal. It is an admitted fact that Alberta domestic coal differs in important particulars from Pennsylvania bituminous or anthracite, just as it differs from Alberta bituminous or anthracite. It has certain qualities and advantages not possessed by bituminous, and bituminous possesses certain qualities and advantages that are not found in Alberta domestic. It is a fact that Alberta domestic coal has not as good keeping qualities as bituminous or anthracite. If exposed to sun, wind, and rain, it has a tendency to check and ultimately to slack; that is, break into pieces so small that it becomes difficult to burn it satisfactorily in an ordinary cook stove, heater or furnace, and impossible to burn it in an open grate. At the same time slack coal is used entirely by the Alliance Power Co. of Edmonton to run the water-works, electric power and electric light utilities of the city; it only requires a special draft in the furnace in order to turn it to good account.

If Alberta coal slacked through lapse of time and not merely because of undue exposure, that would of course militate seriously against summer mining and storage for winter use; but, as a matter of fact, if Edmonton domestic coal is delivered to the consumer in good condition—that is to say, having been properly screened—and if it is thoroughly covered from sun, wind and rain, it will keep from early summer throughout the winter in perfectly good condition. Sun and wind have more effect upon it than rain, but if Edmonton coal is piled out in the open and left without shelter of any kind, while the outer layer will slack, as already stated, in that condition it will protect the remainder of the pile. Of course it would be wasteful to store Edmonton coal as bituminous and anthracite can be stored, without shelter of any kind. As a matter of fact, however, consumers generally do not store even their bituminous or anthracite coal under such conditions. Circumstances require that there shall be enclosed and covered storage provided for any class of coal held by the consumer. Therefore, the fact that bituminous or anthracite coal can be stored without shelter, while Edmonton coal should not, has no bearing on the question of the respective values of the two kinds of coal. In any case coal is given covered and enclosed storage, and if Edmonton coal is given properly covered and enclosed storage it does not deteriorate seriously or appreciably in value. For the reason that wind and sun affect it, basement storage is better than storage above ground. The consumer who can provide basement storage need have no hesitation in filling up with Edmonton coal whenever he can get it, being assured that it will give good fuel value whenever consumed. Storage above ground should be well enclosed from sun, wind and rain, and if storage of that character is provided—as it can easily be—there is no appreciable or serious slacking or deterioration in fuel value.

While there is a general similarity in the fuel qualities of Edmonton domestic coal in that it all burns without making soot, there are some differences between the products of different mines in heating power per ton and in keeping qualities. The consumer must make his own choice as to what company he desires to deal with, and which product he prefers. In coal mining, as in every other line of business, some producers give greater care to the preparation of their product for the market than others.

In this connection, it would be well for dealers and consumers—especially those who are served by train—to take notice of the fact that the Pennsylvania coal interests of Winnipeg are carrying on a campaign that stops at nothing to discredit Alberta coal; and that it has come to the knowledge of men in the coal business in Edmonton that at points in Saskatchewan coal slack has been offered for sale as Edmonton coal, clearly with the intention of discrediting the marketable Edmonton product. Coal shipped from the well established mines is thoroughly screened before being loaded, and is shipped in condition to stand storage if properly handled and cared for.

The point is that Edmonton coal has the heating power necessary to stand off winter conditions. There is plenty of it, and the only question is whether it can be made available in sufficient quantities at the time when it is most urgently needed. That is a matter which claims the attention of the producer, dealer, consumer and Government, and each has his own measure of responsibility. The consumer is the man whose need must be supplied. He is the man who must pay all costs; and he is the man who suffers if the supply is not available. His only safe course is to buy coal when he can get it and store it until he needs to use it. By this means—and this means alone—when winter comes he will be independent of miner, dealer and Government, and will ensure the health and safety of himself, his family and his business.

in Alberta

(Contributed by M. Zena, Lake Isle)
Lots of farmers don't make progress in this country while others do because they are not doing the right thing nor knowing the kind of grains, grasses and vegetables suited to profitable production in this locality.

Fred Mutzenbeek, of Lake Erie, has at the last provincial fall fair a prize winning exhibit of fall rye that was grown on white clay land, while like this story. At his farm is no

This rye has a very unique history. When Mr. Montezenek came from the Old Country he brought with him a quart of a new kind of rye which was specially raised and cultivated in Courland, a province of Russia near the Gulf of Riga. The trunk was delayed in transit, and when finally loaded, mice had eaten all but a handful of the imported rye. It was gathered up, and sown; then the crop was sown again. Last year he had a crop of six acres.

There has not been much rye raised in Alberta, and what has been sown has been mostly for greenfeed.

and not for grain. Many people do not know that for flour rye cannot be grown in stony black soil, because the straw grows too rank and in some cases lodges, and the flour from such grain will be dark. But when grown in that white clay soil, fall rye will make a very white flour and the straw grows just about big enough to produce nice, plump kernels.

However, with the rye as with any other grain crop, the soil, good or poor, must be cultivated and good seed sown. Fall and spring pasturing of cattle on rye fields in this country is overdone. In the old country, cattle were very seldom seen pastured on rye fields, and then only when the soil was frozen. But when the rye is seeded in very strong black soil, and some falls happen to be very long and warm, the rye fields may be

In Europe, the fall rye was sown about the middle of August, but as falls are warmer there it would be just about right to seed fall rye in the Edmonton district about the first and second week in July.

Besides, rye, potatoes grow very nicely on those white clay soils, especially the second year after breaking and while the soil is soft and loose. Why try to raise beans, corn and buckwheat, when oats and barley and rye can be grown, as also such vegetables as potatoes, turnips, carrot and beets?

Before one finds out what grows best and which crop gives the best returns, he has to go through many experiments in this part of the country as experimental farms are located on black soil and advice is given only by experimenting.
